Hierarchy of the 3 Layers

A Level: Critical thinking and analysis of real world issues.

B Level: Application of ideas gained in the C level. Each assignment should reflect a unique student perspective. This layer should entice reluctant learners, particularly in the beginning of the year.

C Level: Basic rote learning. Facts, vocabulary, skills. Students demonstrate a basic understanding of material. This is the layer where the teacher can truly differentiate instruction. Offer a wide variety of assignment choices to meet the learning stylers and ability of all your students. Students will pick and choose assignments up to a C grade.
